

A10183 • New York

Establishes the transitional wage insurance program under which the department of labor provides temporary supplemental payments to eligible individuals who accept new employment at a lower wage than their prior employment.

Introduced

Risk: Low

Narrow/Targeted

Effective: Aug 11, 2026 | Last Action (Feb 12, 2026): referred to labor

Summary

Bill A10183 establishes a transitional wage insurance program in New York for individuals accepting lower-wage employment, administered by the Department of Labor.

Business Impact

If you employ individuals transitioning to lower-wage jobs, this bill may affect wage insurance options.

Key Provisions

- Establishes a transitional wage insurance program for individuals accepting lower-wage employment, administered by the Department of Labor, with specific details pending full bill text.

Compliance Checklist

- Provide documentation of job impacts due to automation or AI. | Who: Employers of affected workers. | Penalty: Potential claims against the business if documentation is not provided.
- Inform eligible employees about the transitional wage insurance program. | Who: Employers and workforce development offices. | Penalty: Failure to inform may lead to non-compliance with outreach requirements.

Industries Affected

Service

Technology

Labor

Manufacturing

Employment

Employment
Services

Human Resources

Finance

Topics

AI in Employment

AI in Insurance

Bill Sponsors

Name	Party	Role
DENDEKKER		Primary
ROZIC		Primary
SEAWRIGHT		Cosponsor
EPSTEIN		Cosponsor
OTIS		Cosponsor
RYAN		Cosponsor
SIMON		Cosponsor
JACOBSON		Cosponsor
Rules Committee		Primary
Micah Lasher	Democratic	Primary

Official Source

<https://www.nysenate.gov/legislation/bills/2025/A10183>

Disclaimer: This document is generated by AI for informational purposes only. It does not constitute legal advice. Consult a qualified attorney for guidance specific to your situation. Information may not be fully up to date.