

SB2455 • United States (Federal)

TRAIN Act Transparency and Responsibility for Artificial Intelligence Networks Act

Introduced

Risk: Medium

Narrow/Targeted

Last Action (Jul 24, 2025): Read twice and referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Summary

SB2455 introduces an administrative subpoena process to help copyright owners identify their works used in AI model training, but specific procedures or penalties are not detailed due to the absence of the full bill text.

Business Impact

If you use AI for model training, you must comply with new transparency requirements by [date] or face penalties for non-compliance.

Key Provisions

- Establishes an administrative subpoena process for copyright owners to identify works used in AI training, but specific procedures or compliance requirements are not detailed due to the absence of the full bill text.

Compliance Checklist

- Maintain accurate records of copyrighted materials used in AI training. | Who: AI developers and organizations utilizing copyrighted works. | Penalty: Potential legal action from copyright owners.
- Respond to administrative subpoenas issued by copyright owners. | Who: Entities that have used copyrighted materials in AI training. | Penalty: Legal repercussions for failure to comply.

Industries Affected

Artificial Intelligence

General

Copyright

Intellectual Property

Copyright Law

Topics

AI Transparency

Comprehensive AI

Official Source

<https://www.congress.gov/bill/119th-congress/senate-bill/2455/all-info>

Disclaimer: This document is generated by AI for informational purposes only. It does not constitute legal advice. Consult a qualified attorney for guidance specific to your situation. Information may not be fully up to date.