

S2499 • Rhode Island

Creates a comprehensive statutory framework to address and regulate the use of artificial intelligence in the workplace, considering the interests of employers and employees.

Introduced

Risk: Medium

Comprehensive

Last Action (Apr 08, 2026): Committee recommended measure be held for further study

Summary

The bill S2499 aims to establish a framework for regulating AI in the workplace, considering both employer and employee interests. Specific provisions will be updated once the full bill text is available.

Business Impact

If you use AI in the workplace, stay informed about potential new regulations.

Compliance Checklist

- Implement transparency measures for AI systems | Who: Employers using AI in decision-making | Penalty: Fines or sanctions for failure to comply
- Conduct regular assessments of AI systems | Who: Employers utilizing AI technologies | Penalty: Potential legal action or fines

Industries Affected

Manufacturing

Retail

Employment

Human Resources

Technology

Topics

AI in Employment

Comprehensive AI

Related Bills

-
- H7767 (RI)
 - SB 2499 (RI)

Official Source

<https://status.rilegislature.gov/>

Disclaimer: This document is generated by AI for informational purposes only. It does not constitute legal advice. Consult a qualified attorney for guidance specific to your situation. Information may not be fully up to date.